

The background of the cover is a low-angle photograph. In the foreground, a tall, light-colored flagpole stands vertically. Several Spanish national flags are flying from the pole, their red, yellow, and white stripes and the central coat of arms clearly visible against a bright blue sky with scattered white clouds. To the right, a large, dark, textured stone wall or structure rises, its surface showing the rough texture of the masonry. In the lower-left corner, the silhouette of a stone building with a decorative finial is visible. The overall composition is dynamic, with strong vertical and diagonal lines.

REVISTA DE ESTUDIOS
MONTEÑOS Nº 146

ASOCIACIÓN CULTURAL MONTES DE TOLEDO